

Aggregating Impact

Mission Investment Intermediaries – Economic Development, Housing and Environment

Introduction

This document lists the mission investment intermediaries that FSG analyzed in its research on investment intermediaries. The results of FSG's analysis of these intermediaries is presented in our Aggregating Impact report, which is available online along with a searchable database of these intermediaries at www.fsg-impact.org/app/content/ideas/item/545.

Though we hope this listing is helpful to foundations for understanding potential investment opportunities, it is very important to note that when researching these intermediaries:

- We did not conduct due diligence on these firms or funds. Their inclusion in this analysis does not constitute a recommendation to invest.
- We attempted to list the major firms and funds available, but this data set is not exhaustive.
- We did not attempt to ascertain whether these firms or funds are seeking additional investment or have closed to further investment.

Foundations must conduct their own due diligence to ascertain whether it is appropriate to invest in one of these intermediaries.

Scope of Research

We researched intermediaries that address economic development<sup>1</sup>, affordable housing<sup>2</sup>, and the environment in the U.S.

We excluded from our research venture capital and private equity funds that do not have an explicit social or environmental objective as part of their missions. Finally, we excluded socially-focused asset managers because they do not maintain a particular issue or regional focus, but tailor their investment strategies to fit the needs of each client.

<sup>2</sup> Some of the sources used did not identify the issue areas that some intermediaries address. We identified these based on their individual web sites and the fact that many CDFIs (particularly banks and credit unions) address both economic development and housing

Sources

We compiled data on intermediaries from numerous sources available to mission investors, listed below. Several of these sources, such as The Community Investing Center and The CDFI Fund, provide summaries of selected intermediaries for investors' use. We encourage funders to visit these sites for more information, along with the web sites of the individual intermediaries.

- The CDFI Data Project www.cdfi.org/cdfiproj.asp
A collaborative initiative to create a data collection and management system that produces data for and about the community development finance field. The CDFI Data Project publishes a periodic study on CDFI performance and activity across the United States and offers a comprehensive database of CDFIs and their activities/performance for purchase.
- The CDFI Fund www.cdfifund.org
A program of the U.S. Department of Treasury, the CDFI Fund provides capital and assistance to CDFIs to spur economic revitalization and community development. The Fund's web site offers a searchable database of CDFI Fund award recipients.
- Community Investing Center www.communityinvest.org
A project of the Community Investing Program of the Social Investment Forum Foundation and Co-op America. The Center's mission is to provide financial professionals with information and resources to help them channel more money into community investing. This includes "how-to" guidance for investors and a searchable database of CDFIs and other community development investment intermediaries.
- Community Development Venture Capital Association (CDVCA) www.cdvca.org
Association venture capital and private equity firms with community development goals. Offers searchable listing of community development venture capital funds.
- Social Investment Forum www.socialinvest.org
The web site of the trade association of the U.S. social investment industry and community. Offers a searchable listing of screened public equity mutual funds.
- SocialFunds.com www.socialfunds.com
A web site devoted to social investing, particularly through public equity mutual funds. The site offers a searchable listing of screened public equity mutual funds.
- Research Initiative on Social Entrepreneurship (RISE) at Columbia Business School www.riseproject.org
This initiative's web site offers a searchable listing of "double bottom line" investment funds.
- Calvert Foundation www.calvertfoundation.org
In addition to operating its own mission investment vehicles, Calvert Foundation provides advice and information about investment intermediary opportunities. The Foundation's web site provides a searchable database of intermediaries, with high level information on each.
